Confucius says "if you choose a job you love you will never work a day in your life". The pursuit of knowledge has always been a fun hobby for me, between studying the markets for companies to trade, to studying social media habits of these companies to see who will capture the hearts of the consumer. being a Web Developer makes it easier to convey my knowledge in these areas by using RESTful techniques MVC and OOP concepts.

PROJECTS

Shoe Runners: A website for sneaker collectors. A group project in which I helped to delegate roles among members contributed API research, concept and direction of project.
